IABC Canada Western Region (CWR) represents and supports IABC chapters and their leaders in the Western Canadian provinces (BC to Manitoba) and the Polar chapter. CWR provides development to chapter leaders and idea/best practices sharing to enhance the operations of individual chapters. The region works closely with its counterpart in Eastern Canada to manage the national Silver Leaf Awards and the Master Communicator Award.

Welcome to one of the most precious protected places in the world. A visit here allows you a chance to experience the spectacular Rocky Mountains and its glacier-fed lakes up close, wildlife at its wildest and the small town charm that only Banff can offer.

About Banff

Banff National Park is set in the heart of the Canadian Rockies. The largest community within Banff National Park is the Town of Banff, which is home to just over 8,700 residents. The Town attracts roughly 4 million visitors each year who come to experience everything from the most exquisite cuisine to every type of outdoor activity imaginable to world class arts and cultural displays.

Banff is a unique destination, and takes pride in accommodating visitors and providing tourism services, without losing the charm of a small mountain community.

The Town of Banff is in the province of Alberta in the southwestern corner of Banff National Park, just west of Calgary. The townsite is about 90 minutes from Calgary via the Trans Canada Highway, and less than two hours from Calgary International Airport. The Hamlet of Lake Louise is 50 minutes further west, also within Banff National Park.

Because the Town of Banff is less than 4 km² and surrounded by mountain parkland and wilderness, the community really does share its space with the wildlife. Some say that a local on their way to work is as likely to see a deer as a neighbourhood dog. Elk, sheep and bear sightings are not uncommon near this town filled with trees, parks and trails.

Pre and Post-Conference Recreational Opportunities

Banff is a vibrant, bustling little village, filled with sites to explore and experiences to enjoy, most of which can be reached by foot or via the country's only all-hybrid bus fleet, ROAM public transit. Activities around town include:

- A trip to the Upper Hot Springs
- The Banff Gondola
- Trail Rides
- Carriage Rides
- Museums & Historic Sites
- Shopping
- Dining
- Movies
- Night Life
- Seasonal Special Events
- The Banff Centre

Discover Banff Tours

Getting to Banff

Banff Adventures Unlimited

www.banffadventures.com

For over a decade, Banff Adventures Unlimited has helped visitors experience the best of Banff National Park and the Canadian Rockies. Offering the full array activities available, we specialize in providing convenient service, allowing our guests to spend more time playing in the mountains and less time planning for them. Whether you seek a calm retreat or a heart-pounding adventure, we are sure to have a trip to satisfy.

To learn more about all of these adventure packages, visit www.banffadventures.com

Great online resources

The best place to learn more is www.banff.ca where you can click on Visitors to find the insider's guide to Banff. This municipal website gives the local's perspective on events and activities, and you can even check out a few top 10 activity lists. Another great resource is www.banfflakelouise.com. This is the site managed by Banff Lake Louise Tourism.

By Air

Banff is easily accessible from Calgary International Airport, a hub for world-wide connections. Major airlines operating regular flights to Calgary include Air Canada, Westjet, American Airlines, United Airlines, Continental Airlines, and Northwest Airlines.

Scheduled van and motorcoach services connect Banff with Calgary Airport, with frequent departures throughout the day. Check out:

- 1) www.banffairporter.com
- 2) www.rockymountainsskyshuttle.com
- 3) <http://www.exploreroockies.com/airport-shuttles/>

All major car rental agencies are represented at the Calgary International Airport, and some also have outlets in Banff. The airport Rental Car Centre is located on the departures level across the roadway from the main terminal building.

By Shuttle

For the folks flying in there is a shuttle from the Calgary airport to Banff. The shuttle will drop off & pick up from the Banff Park Lodge front doors. Please contact: charter@banffairporter.com or 1-888-449-2901.

Delegates receive a 15% discount.

To book online please visit:

www.banffairporter.com

Username: iabc

Password: iabc11 (all lower case)

By Car

Transportation to and from Banff is easy on Canada's national Highway 1, the Trans-Canada Highway. The drive from Calgary International Airport takes a little less than 2 hours, a distance of 145 km (90 miles). Because Banff townsite is inside Banff National Park, you will need to purchase a national park pass at the Park gate. Rates are $9 per day per person, or $18 per day for a car with 2-7 people.

- Exit the airport parking and car rental lot and follow signs for Barlow Trail and City Centre
- Follow Barlow Trail South to 16th Avenue
- Turn right (west) on 16th Avenue
- 16th Avenue becomes Trans-Canada Highway 1, which takes you directly to Banff
- After approximately 120 km (72 miles), stop at the National Park Gates to obtain your Park Pass
- 15 minutes past the park gate, exit Highway 1 at the Banff/Lake Minnewanka exit
- Turn left at the exit ramp stop sign onto Banff Ave

Pre-Conference Workshops

8:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.

Workshop A: Communicating in a Multi-Generational Workplace

Glenna Cross

ABC, Master Communicator, Cross Wise Communications Ltd., Calgary, AB
www.cross-wise.ca

Understanding who is in today's multi-generational workplace and how best to work with or for them is essential for building successful working relationships.

Learn to recognize the generational differences in lifestyles, expectations, motivations, priorities, and work ethic through this highly interactive and fun workshop that will cover:

- Why understanding the wants/needs of each generation is helpful.
- The characteristics of each generation.
- The communication needs, preferences and turn offs for each generation.
- The human resources demands and preferences for each generation in terms of recruitment/retention, performance feedback, mentoring and learning and development.
- What communicators can do to build effective multi-generational strategies.
- How to use multi-generational understanding to become a more effective communication coach for internal clients.

By the end of the workshop you can expect to have laughed with your own generation, challenged your assumptions of other generations and discovered some fundamentals common to all generations. Armed with these insights, you will have developed a list of actions to improve your personal communication effectiveness and new tools to help your clients with their communication.

Workshop B: Table-Top Crisis Exercise and Lessons Learned – 9/11, Hurricane Katrina

Barry MacDonald

BARIC Continuity Services Inc., Toronto, ON
www.bariccontinuity.com

Kristin Abraham

North Shore Credit Union,
North Vancouver, BC
www.nscu.com

It's 9:35 AM and you are sitting in a meeting. All of a sudden, the fire alarm goes off and everyone around the table looks at one and other. Someone speaks up and says, "I guess we're supposed to leave the building... aren't we?"

If you've ever wondered what actually happens in a disaster situation, you won't want to miss this session. Over the next 3 hours, BARIC Continuity Services will conduct a Table-top Crisis Exercise similar to the one conducted for North Shore Credit Union (NSCU) in 2008. During the exercise, which will cover a 4 – 5 day period, participants will be provided with a day-by-day escalating crisis scenario.

Participants will be broken out into various work-groups (HR, Facilities, Sales, IT, Customer Service, etc.) and assigned tasks. Participants are encouraged to be actively involved. Together in your work group you will discuss what action steps should be taken based upon the scenario or situation. These action steps will be presented and discussed amongst the entire group.

At the end of the exercise, participants will have had the opportunity to walk through a sample disaster situation and will take away ideas and notes for their own company's Business Continuity Plan.

At the completion of the exercise, Barry will share "lessons learned" from his participation in the 9/11 and Hurricane Katrina disasters.

1:30 p.m. – 4:00 p.m.

Workshop C: Moments of Clarity: Communications Auditing

Elaine Dixson

APR, ABC, Master Communicator,
Key Concepts LTD., Calgary, AB
www.keyconcepts.ca

Few things are as clarifying in communications work as a good communications audit. Spend this half-day workshop exploring audits as a communications management tool. The session will cover the strategic purpose and different types of audits, including departmental audits, internal communication audits, social audits, and public relations audits. The workshop will also introduce you to the various auditing tools and techniques, and you'll learn about the practical uses of audit results, including how audits can be used to establish benchmarks and baselines, surface capability and capacity gaps, and refresh long-running programs or vehicles.

Workshop D: Leading Leaders: Understanding and Influencing Leaders

Karen Lee

ABC, Master Communicator,
The KJ Lee Group, Vancouver, BC

To survive in 2009, organizations must respond quickly to changing market conditions without losing the confidence of anxious internal and external stakeholders. It's rough sailing for our leaders, who are trying to steer with poor visibility, no compass and a map that's suddenly out of date. This is exactly the kind of turbulent, complex environment that researchers have found presents huge opportunities for communicators. This is when our expertise and counsel can make a difference.

So how can we help our leaders lead? How can we get their attention? What type of support do they need? What do they fear? What roadblocks do they face? What advice and counsel do they find most valuable? What does the research tell us leaders want from communicators?

In part one of this workshop, participants will analyze leaders as an audience -- demographics, values, beliefs, biases, strengths, weaknesses, communications research – and discuss what organizations expect from leaders in times of uncertainty and change.

In part two, Karen will share what she has learned coaching executives and training managers in three different scenarios: to enhance employee engagement; to facilitate a merger; and to support organizational re-structuring.

In the final part of the workshop, Karen will take participants through a condensed version of the training she uses to help managers become exceptional communicators.

Keynote Address

 4:30 p.m. – 5:30 p.m.

Richard Bartrem

Vice-President,
Culture and Communications — WestJet

In an industry rife with failure and renowned low-service standards, WestJet's Big Idea in 1996 was "Hey let's start an airline!" Join Richard Bartrem, WestJet's Vice-President, Culture and Communications as he takes you through how WestJet became one the most commercially successful airlines in the world. Ultimately, WestJet's success comes from having the right corporate culture led by an engaged internal audience and Richard will share WestJet's five big ideas to getting it right.

General Sessions

The Crisis Plan Doesn't Cover Day 3: The Maple Leaf Case Study

 9:00 a.m.

Linda Smith

Fleishman Hillard, Toronto, ON
www.fleishman.ca

Linda Smith, has worked on more than 20 recalls, fires, ammonia leaks and evacuations over her career. She has also created globally-coordinated crisis plans. In 2007, Linda's client, Maple Leaf Foods, faced an unprecedented recall and recovery effort. While a crisis plan speaks to organizing principles, a company needs much more to get through a major event and recover corporate reputation and market share. Linda will share her insights.

Taking the 'Corporate' Out of Corporate Communications

 10:00 a.m.

Steve Crescenzo

Crescenzo Communications, Chicago, IL
www.crescenzocomm.com;
BLOG: corporatehallucinations.com

Are you in a rut? Are you tired of doing the same kinds of stories the same way . . . Over and over again? Do you find that you're even boring YOURSELF as you put together content? Here's the bottom line: Corporate communications doesn't work anymore. We need to take the "corporate" out of corporate communications, and replace it with "creative." In this fun, practical session, noted communications expert Steve Crescenzo will show you:

- How to take those tired old stories and flip them upside down — so that people actually pay attention to them
- How to start using the new tools available to communicators — including social media and multimedia channels
- How to find and tell the kinds of stories that will cut through the information clutter that is so rampant in your organization
- How to start using all of your channels together to reach, engage, motivate, and inform your various audiences
- How to start using your vehicles to change the culture in your organization from "We've always done it this way," to "Let's try something different and see if it works."

Networking Refreshment Break

Sponsored by: Merlin Edge Inc.

 11:00 a.m.

Concurrent Breakout Sessions — 11:30 a.m.

Session A: Using the Excellence Model to Evaluate Your Communications Function

Glenna Cross

www.cross-wise.ca

The Excellence Model (IABC Research Foundation project) provides a practical and understandable benchmark against which your communications function can be compared. It outlines the “Knowledge Core” communicators need to bring to the table; the “Shared Expectations” necessary between the leadership team and communicators; and, the “Organizational Culture” in which both must operate to achieve Excellence.

The model provides a coherent and objective picture for your senior leaders to see what professional communications is or could be. Learn how you can use this well researched and credible model in self evaluation or in a communications audit.

Session B: Benchmarks, Best Practices and Great Ideas in Annual Reporting

Chuck Midgette

Blunn & Company, Toronto, ON
www.blunnco.com

Whether on-line or in print, the annual report is still the single most effective way to ensure your company’s story is delivered to the right audience, in the right context, with the most impact. This highly-visual session will explore the latest trends in annual report design and content based on a comprehensive annual review of hundreds of leading North American and European annual reports by Blunn & Company Inc. and Craib Design and Communication.

Session C: Effective Communication in a 2.0 World

Steve Crescenzo

Crescenzo Communications, Chicago, IL
www.crescenzocomm.com;
BLOG: corporatehallucinations.com

The online environment has changed dramatically in the past two years. The old mantra of “people don’t read online” simply isn’t true anymore. People do read online... but they also want to listen to audio, watch video and interact with the content. Creating content in this new online world involves more than just writing words—it’s about changing the way you think about your content.

In this session, you’ll learn how to:

- Create 2.0 content that people will actually pay attention to
- Use multimedia vehicles and social media to draw more readers to your site—and keep them there
- Change your writing style—and help executives change their writing styles—to reach the 2.0 audience

Networking Luncheon

Sponsored by: Elapsed Time Advertising Inc.

 12:45 p.m.

Concurrent Breakout Sessions — 2:00 p.m.

Session A: Issues Management: How to Turn Reactive into Proactive

Cynthia Lockrey

City of Richmond, Richmond, BC
www.richmond.ca

Too often, communicators find themselves in a reactive versus proactive situation when it comes to issues management. While these issues have been brewing internally for quite some time, communicators are often told of the situation shortly before or after it becomes public. The challenge for communicators is not only finding out about issues before they hit the media, but coming up with a strategy to mitigate the release of the information. In this session, hear specific case studies and examples of proactive issues management and how you can use it to diffuse some volatile situations.

Session B: The Evolution of Engagement at The City of Calgary

Cindy Pickett

City of Calgary, Calgary, AB
www.calgary.ca

Learn how The City encouraged politicians and senior management to build a policy mandated corporate-wide public engagement practice. Cindy will share the tools, processes and resources needed to succeed along with the strategies necessary to meet the changing needs of citizens now and into the future.

Session C: Edmonton's Succeed Sooner Campaign

Marlene McNaughton

DDB, Edmonton, AB
www.ddbcanada.com

What can raising awareness among 15,000 people who have never heard of your city mean to a place like Edmonton? Imagine an advertising return on investment that could drive $900 million into your organization. That's what City of Edmonton economists estimate attracting 15,000 newcomers to Edmonton would be worth. Not a random number, 15,000 is the number of students who increased their level of awareness and their potential interest in living and establishing their career in Edmonton following a one-month marketing and awareness campaign.

Edmonton's research-driven campaign was developed in response to data that showed low awareness, combined with misinformation and confusion about what Edmonton has to offer, placed Edmonton lower on potential city choices for young people living in Ontario.

The City of Edmonton teamed up with Edmonton Economic Development Corporation (EEDC), and local stakeholders and businesses to change the situation. They retained DDB in the fall of 2007, to put together a marketing and awareness campaign to shift perceptions of what Edmonton has to offer.

Learn how to develop a research-driven strategy that gets results. We'll discuss insight development, advertising strategy, precise audience targeting, creative development, and how we used evaluation to get the most out of this advertising opportunity.

Research Doesn't Lie: Evaluating the Effectiveness of Your Speaking Style

 3:30 p.m.

Tom Mucciolo

MediaNet, Inc., New York, NY

www.medianet-ny.com

A comprehensive study identifies the preferences by audiences of a person's presentation skills. Based on the findings, it is now possible to pinpoint the exact elements that make a speaker more (or less) effective, depending on the type of audience. Focusing on the 21 skill areas inherent in every speaker, these findings reveal that delivering the same presentation to different groups of learners will yield different outcomes, based on the learner preferences. A special assessment tool now offers communicators a measurable way to classify speakers according to the skills that appeal to specific groups for specific purposes, thus maximizing communication efficiency.

By the end of this session, you will be able to:

- Understand the 21 skill categories within a presenter
- Recognize distinct types of learners
- Identify the skill preferences of different learners
- Use a special assessment form to measure effectiveness

Closing remarks; End of Day 1

 4:30 p.m.

A Night at the Wild Bill's Saloon (Additional charge of $50)

 6:30 p.m. – 9:30 p.m.

At this year's conference we thought we'd whoop it up in one big Wild West venue as opposed to our traditional Dine Around conference option. Wild Bill's Legendary Saloon is centrally located on the main street of Banff, Alberta, Canada and it is an absolute hoot according to our local experts. We will have a great dinner, then spend the evening taking line dance lessons and mastering our calf roping skills. At the end of the night we'll crown our very own IABC Calf Roping Champion.

Concurrent Breakout Sessions – 10:30 a.m.

Session A: Doing Research Inexpensively to Support Strategic Plans

Elaine Dixson

APR, ABC, Master Communicator,
Key Concepts LTD., Calgary, AB
www.keyconcepts.ca

If you want to support your strategic plans with good solid research, but are put off by the cost, come to this interactive presentation and learn about some valuable and innovative approaches to stakeholder research that don't cost the earth – all of which you can do yourself! Hear about contact and content captures, snowball and cluster calling, and how to use web survey tools effectively. Learn how to construct your research questions to maximize the quality of the results you get! Bring your questions about specific issues you've encountered in doing research – and get answers on the spot!

Session B: A Gold Quill Case Study: Banff Refreshing: Changing the way people think about construction

Michelle Gurney

ABC, Town of Banff, Banff, AB
www.banff.ca

The Town of Banff is a major Canadian tourist destination, with four million visitors annually descending upon the small town of just over 8,000 residents. In 2007, with the 100-year-old infrastructure failing, the Town of Banff kicked off a $22.8 million plan to replace its infrastructure and make its downtown more pedestrian friendly and reflective of the natural environment.

You'll learn how the Town:

- Mitigated construction and its impact on residents, businesses and visitors
- Maintained community buy-in using a three-phase communication plan
- Created a festival-like atmosphere downtown to keep visitors where business could be preserved

Session C: Visually Speaking: The Basics of Winning Presentations

Tom Mucciolo

www.medianet-ny.com

Since the greatest percentage of the communication process is physical, this seminar emphasizes personal delivery styles and the mechanics of presenting. You will discover the power of body language, eye contact, and theatrical gestures for enhancing your personal effectiveness and style, including the techniques needed to maintain control of the audience through planned movement, key body angles, balanced gestures, and proper phrasing. The result is a practical, easily-applied approach designed to increase the delivery skills of those who communicate to groups of any size.

By the end of this session, you will be able to:

- Eliminate fear and anxiety by matching physical movement to content
- Use gestures to control attention and increase interaction
- Avoid common vocal problems and reduce distractions
- Develop a seamless integration of technology and delivery

Networking Luncheon

 12:00 p.m.

Concurrent breakout sessions — 1:30 p.m.

Session A: Divided Audiences — Collective Shift! Changing Opinion in Canada's Favorite Game

Wendy Heshka

ABC, Communication Solutions,
Kamloops, BC
www.solutiongroup.ca

Sharon Stevens,

APR, Fellow CPRS, Communication
Solutions, Kamloops, BC
www.solutiongroup.ca

Opinion is hard to change. Behaviour is even harder. Especially when it relates to something people are passionate about. What is the key to effectively influencing opinion? It's all in the planning.

In this session, learn how communication strategy paid off in changing opinion on a top Canadian priority. No — not the environment, healthcare or the economy. Something even more engrained in our culture — hockey! This fascinating communication challenge features NHL players (Iginla, Doan, Recchi, and Sydor), powerful business leaders, lawyers and a Supreme Court judge in twists and turns that kept thousands of people on the edge of their seats.

Learn how research and measurement formed a foundation for an integrated communications plan that earned trust, maximized the power of influence to change opinion, engaged adversaries and managed media. Be inspired by how PR and legal formed a united crisis management team. And how in the end, the approach paid off with impressive results, including a vote by shareholders to sell their beloved hockey team and by newspaper readers as the second top news story of 2007. Take away ideas on “change communication” and how to get creative in achieving and measuring your results.

Session B: Diversity, Segmentation and Targeting in Media Relations

John Deveney

ABC, APR, President,
Deveney Communication, New Orleans, LA
www.deveney.com

Campaigns that mirror and match the increasing segmentation and specialization of media outlets, communities and the public can reap rewards and results. This presentation reveals strategies that respond to and resonate with an increasingly diverse public, as well as tricks, tips and tactics to secure media coverage, community support and recognition. Specific case studies are used to illustrate the strategies introduced during the presentation.

Become versed in:

- Advancing a national campaign targeting not the general public, but specific geographies, issues, ethnicities, sexual orientation, levels of affluence and age
- How an expanded appreciation of diversity and technology combined with good old fashioned media smarts can deliver big results
- The use of the Internet as your most valuable resource for identifying and reaching your targets

Session C. Now that Social Media is Mainstream, We Can Get Down to Business

Allan Jenkins

Desirable Roasted Coffee, Denmark
www.desirable roasted coffee.com

2009: Blogs? 300 million Facebookers? 5 billion tweets published on Twitter? 200 million blogs? 20 billion YouTube videos watched each month?

Whatever social media was a year or so ago, today we are social media. It's Oprah. It's mainstream. It's us.

That means your organization, whether the CEO knows Twitter from MySpace, must decide how it will work with social media. Because when people “Google” your company, they don't want to know what you say about you. They want to know what everyone else says about you. And that's happening in social media.

In this session, Allan Jenkins shows you how organizations, big and small, use social media to successfully engage customers, build sales, discuss criticism, empower employees, and let fans evangelize. And, he looks (usually gently) at cases where companies have walked into social media quicksand.

Allan presents timely case studies and a model for considering your organization's social media presence. And we will have ample time for Q & A discussion.

General Information

Located in the heart of Banff National Park, Banff Park Lodge is the only 4 star Canada Select full-service resort hotel and conference centre. A fabulous 211 room hotel within walking distance of everything the majestic town of Banff has to offer.

Just steps behind the Banff Park Lodge, located on the beautiful Bow River is the newly acquired Bow View Lodge. The Bow View and Banff Park Lodge are just a two-minute stroll to the finest shopping, dining and entertainment any world-class resort has to offer. Bow View guests have access to all the amenities of the Banff Park Lodge and is just a few short steps away.

Lake Louise, also located in historic Banff National Park, is one of the most photographed spots in the world. When you see it, you'll understand why. Everywhere you look, ski, hike, climb, canoe, walk or wander - is scenery that is absolutely stunning.

When flying to Banff, the Calgary International Airport (YYC) is the closest major airport. There is an independent airport shuttle service that operates between the airport and the Banff Park Lodge. Most rental car companies are available at the airport or in Banff. The distance from Calgary is 130 kilometers (83 miles). It takes approximately 90 minutes to get to Banff from the Calgary Airport. Taxis are readily available from the hotel should you need one.

Group rates are valid for 2 days pre and post to stay subject to availability.

For the convenience of our guests, we offer an indoor pool, hot tub and plunge pool, steam room, and exercise machines. There is an all day casual dining room, one formal dining room and lounge, room service and onsite shopping. The hotel has recently installed an ATM bank machine and an Internet Access System.

Linda sits on the Senior Management Committee of Fleishman-Hillard Inc. and works frequently with US operations.

During her 15 years as operational lead of Fleishman-Hillard Canada she oversaw the growth of the agency from start up to 200 consultants under a variety of brands including Fleishman-Hillard Canada, High Road, iStudio and Avant.

Sharon Stevens

APR, CPRS Fellow, Partner,
Communication Solutions Inc.,

Sharon thinks of PR as “planned relationships” that have the power to help organizations survive and prosper.

She advocates for a strategic approach to communication because she knows that for a communication program to reap results, it has to improve an organization’s relationships — with their employees, customers, shareholders, regulators, government or media among others.

For more than 20 years, Sharon has received accolades for her marketing communications strategies and in 2007 her longtime APR Accreditation was complemented by the awarding of Fellowship with the Canadian Public Relations Society — a title granted only to the most experienced communicators. Sharon holds a degree in Radio and Television Arts from Ryerson University and a certificate in Crisis Communication from the Institute for Crisis Management.

Allan Jenkins

Principal, Desirable Roasted Coffee, a general communication agency.

Partner, CA-CPH, an agency specializing in climate/environmental corporate communication.

Chef & Gardener, Tohoejgaard Guesthouse.

Allan has worked in communication for more than 22 years, on both the client and agency sides, in advertising, PR and corporate communication. Today, he consults on communication strategy, train/coach managers in communication skills and write as much as he can. To balance his life in conference rooms, he also cooks and tend the herb garden at Tohoejgaard Guesthouse, a seaside inn in rural Denmark.

These days, he spends time telling managers 1) social media is not a threat, 2) social media will not solve your image problems, 3) yes, you can let the staff be on Facebook. If you have a policy.

IABC Chairman's Award, 2006.
Former Secretary-Treasurer and board member, IABC International and the IABC Research Foundation. Finance Director, IABC Europe-Middle East, former Vice-Director IABC Europe-Middle East-Africa.
